2015 Broken Compass Saitone Vineyard, Russian River Valley Carignane

Saitone is one of the oldest vineyards out on the Olivet Road region of the Russian River Valley planted in 1895 by Antonio Saitone and honoring its heritage through dry farming and sustainable practices is part of the commitment to preserving its legacy.

JEB DUNNUCK

91 Pts The 2015 Broken Compass is all old vine Carignane sourced from Sonoma County. It offers loads of black fruits, beetroot, violets, and resinous herbs in a medium to full-bodied, juicy, vibrant style. It has good acidity, fine tannin, classic Carignane character and is going to drink nicely for 5-6 years.

Deep garnet-purple colored, the 2015 Carignane Old Vine Broken Compass opens with baked blackberries and preserved plums notes with hints of pencil lead, fertile soil and dried herbs. Big, full-bodied, rich and firmly textured with chewy tannins, it has a tart, refreshing acid line and long, earthy finish.
